Foreword

You will find in the 1968 Mennonite Yearbook a number of changes which we felt necessary to make because of a lack of space and because of the growth of the organization and activities of the Mennonite Church. The changes are as follows:

1. The ministerial directories of all Mennonite groups in United States and Canada except the Mennonite Church, the Conservative Mennonite Church, Beachy Amish, and the Various Mennonite Churches have been omitted. However, the name of each group has been retained with the membership and the source to which any person may write for additional information about these groups. Some of these groups have their own yearbooks and are available by writing for them. One or two lists were quite difficult to keep up-to-date because of the hesitancy of these groups to respond with information.

2. The Amish elementary schools have been omitted from the section on elementary schools. In some instances we were not certain which were Amish and which were not. The reason for omitting these was threefold: we did not believe the Amish appreciated our listing their schools. We had considerable difficulty getting information on all the schools because the schools did not respond. The statistical data we had was not complete and thus was inaccurate.

3. The congregational organizations listed under Various Mennonite Churches have been combined into one group and listed alphabetically. The reason for this change was the dissatisfaction of some congregations with the way they were listed. Any congregation which does not wish to be listed in this group will be removed if it so requests it.

4. Because of the increase of the number of institutions and their staff members and because of the many changes in these staffs during the year, we felt it best not to list certain categories of staff members but retain the administrative officers of the institutions. Anyone desiring additional information about any institution, camp, or other activity may write direct to the institution.

5. The general organization of the Mennonite Yearbook is patterned after the organization and administration of the church with its General Conference, General Council, General Boards, district conferences and district boards and committees, and the district conferences with their congregations, membership, and ministry. The district conference periodicals are now listed at the beginning of each conference table.

There have been some other minor changes and improvements. We are trying to get telephone numbers for all church offices as well as street addresses for all city churches. We invite your cooperation in helping us to secure this information.

We are deeply indebted again this year to all who provided information for this year's issue. Your cooperation and support have made possible this handbook of information which shows in a statistical manner the church at work in this world.

The Mennonite Church, January 1, 1968

BY HOWARD J. ZEHR
Executive Secretary of Mennonite General Conference

The church yearbook is always highly significant to persons who know the meaning of life in Christ and membership in His body, the church. The Mennonite Yearbook reveals the manner in which the life of this portion of His people, recognized as the Mennonite Church, is being expressed in today's world.

The church always gives expression of its life through some structural form, and this book indicates the variety of forms through which the life of the Mennonite Church is being expressed in today's world.

The very nature and essence of the church is mission. Christ's mission is ours. He said, "As the Father has sent me, even so I send you" into the world. The Apostle John later wrote, "As he is so are we in this world." These words became the theme of the 1967 biennial session of Mennonite General Conference held at Christopher Dock School near Lansdale, Pennsylvania, August 21-24. In this conference there was an expressed awareness of our being in the world at a significant point in history, a sincere desire to take our obedience to Christ seriously, and an attempt to find more effective ways of bearing witness to Christ and of being His presence in the present situation. John Mosemann, in the conference sermon, challenged the delegates of Mennonite General Conference to accept their calling to follow Christ into the places and structures where the people are hurting.

New Structure Emerging

Structural forms which have developed through the years become inadequate and obsolete in a time of rapid change. A most significant development now being undertaken is the serious study of organizational structure on all levels of church life. The Study Commission on Church Organization gave a significant progress report to the General Conference sessions, and expects to work intensively during the next year. The purpose of the study is to attempt to take a fresh and serious look at the nature and mission of the Mennonite Church, and then discover the most suitable structural forms to carry out that purpose. It is, therefore, expected that during the current year the total Mennonite Church will be involved in this effort to discern God's purpose in today's world and become better equipped to carry it forward.

Mennonite General Conference

Mennonite General Conference continues to serve as a resource to the church in assisting congregations and district conferences in undergirding and equipping for mission. The General Council, composed of 38 persons, counsels and coordinates the work of the church between the biennial sessions of the Mennonite General Conference. The General Council met on March 1 and 2, 1968, in Chicago for its annual session. The Executive Committee, which serves as the Steering Committee, met the preceding two days to prepare for the occasion and to take care of administrative details.

Church Welfare

The present Church Welfare Committee is deeply concerned for the spiritual health of the church that gives expression in a genuine spiritual unity. It sees these relationships within the brotherhood as essential to an effective witness. The committee, therefore, recommended in the last session of General Conference a two-year emphasis on brotherhood relationships. The general theme "The Witness of Brotherhood" has subsequently been adopted as a guiding theme for the church's ministry during the next biennium. It was Jesus who said, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another."

Peace and Social Concerns

The Committee on Peace and Social Concerns stimulates our thinking in areas of peace, and helps us face the ethical problems confronted in our complex society and points directions for us to minister to these ills. The church has asked this committee to probe more deeply the meaning and implication of being faithful to Christ in a country at war. This committee sponsors an annual S. F. Coffman Peace lectureship. Most recent lectures have been the following: Extremism by Edgar Metzler; The MEDA Story by Carl Kreider; and Population and Food Problems by Franklin Bishop. The committee worked conjointly with other agencies of the church in developing a peace quarterly and in sponsoring a series of Peacemaker Workshops.

Christian Education

The Commission for Christian Education endeavors to see the nurture task in terms of the whole life span, the whole person, and in the context of the total program of the church. This Commission increasingly sees itself in a servant role with congregations and district conferences. It provides resource materials to the local congregation and introduces their use. It is developing a more flexible program to meet the demands of rapidly changing situations in congregational life. This Commission endeavors to build the philosophy upon which the curriculum materials are based. In carrying out its ministry, it sponsors a variety of workshops, leadership seminars, and conventions as an aid in this equipping ministry.

Ministerial Leadership

The Ministerial Committee is aware of the concerns of congregational leaders to keep informed and equipped for the leadership role in a time of rapid change, and serves as a resource in this area of concern. This committee attempts to give leadership in defining and redefining the role of the minister. Effort is being made to provide more in-service training and continuing education for pastors in Mennonite congregations. Special plans are being made to aid congregations in discovering and calling men into the Christian ministry. Several pilot projects are under way through the sponsorship of this committee to help congregations discover and equip persons for the pastoral and ministerial tasks.

Worship

The Worship Committee is aware of the importance of the way people worship. Worship and work interrelate and affect one another. The committee gives guidance to the church for developing worship patterns that are in harmony with our theological understanding and our sense of mission. New situations call for new forms and methods of worship. An architectural counseling service is now being developed through leadership given by the Worship Committee. A new church hymnal is now in the hand of the printer, and is to be ready for release in the summer of 1969.

Our History

The Historical and Research Committee has a twofold task: (1) to help us see ourselves and our task in proper historical perspective, and (2) to provide skills for research. The committee collects, classifies, preserves, and assists researchers by keeping records of church life in the Mennonite Church Archives. There are now a total of 3,067 archive boxes with valuable records containing over 600,000 items. The publication of the Mennonite Historical Bulletin in now entering its 29th year through the services of this group.

Mutual Aid

The Mennonite Mutual Aid organization has become an inter-Mennonite organization serving the entire Mennonite family. Mennonite General Conference is still its current parent body. The newly developed fraternal organization is now in its third year and is offering an effective ministry. The underlying philosophy of Mennonite Mutual Aid is one of mutual sharing.

Stewardship

The Stewardship Office assists district conferences and congregational leaders in program building and stewardship promotion and stimulation. It emphasizes the stewardship of the whole of life. Daniel Kauffman, who served as the first Stewardship Secretary, terminated his services January 1, 1967. The program was continued on a part-time basis until November 1, 1967, when J. J. Hostetler began serving on a half-time basis as Stewardship Secretary, giving the remainder of his time as an associate in field services for the Commission for Christian Education.

Relationship to Other Christian Groups

The Interchurch Relations Committee is now serving its third year as an ad hoc committee. It has been set up to give guidance to the church in interchurch relationships. It counsels the church in finding suitable ways of our sharing with and receiving from other Christian groups.

The Mennonite Publication Board

The Mennonite Publication Board endeavors to serve the literature needs of the Mennonite Church. It is responsible for the selection, the publication, and the distribution of literature to strengthen the faith and life of the church constituency. It provides evangelistic literature for church extension and witness.

The Mennonite Publishing House is a servant of the church and is operated by the Mennonite Publication Board. It retails through seven bookstores known as Provident Bookstores.

Some of the titles of books printed in 1967 are: An Introduction to Mennonite History by C. J. Dyck; The Secret Church by Louise A. Vernon; The Mennonite Church in America by John C. Wenger; Mennonites in the Confederacy by Samuel L. Horst; Her Doctor, Will Mayo by Mary Giffin, MD; Promise unto Death by Grace Cash; The Bible Smuggler by Louise A. Vernon; Pilgrim Aflame by Myron S. Augsburger; Mattie Mae by Edna Beiler; Christopher Dock by Gerald C. Studer; Lost Fatherland by John B. Toews. A host of pamphlets, Christian education materials, and other church supplies have been published also during the past year.

Over 200 people are currently employed in the publishing, printing, and book-selling ministry. Annual sales exceed $3,000,000. Provident Bookstores account for the retailing of about two thirds of this amount.

A new youth magazine, With, for senior high school age is to be published, beginning about July 1, 1968. A new weekly take-home paper, Purpose, for young and old, will also be published, beginning July 7, 1968. The Youth's Christian Companion will then be discontinued.

The Mennonite Publishing House cooperates with other Mennonite groups in a number of areas such as development of Sunday school curriculum, the Christian Service Training Series, the publication of a new hymnal, the new youth magazine, mission study courses, peace quarterlies, and in the reprint of The Mennonite Encyclopedia. New material for use in instructing new members of the church is currently in preparation.

Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities

The Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities has a major task in its responsibility for the mission service program of the Mennonite Church. This board, along with other boards and agencies of the Mennonite Church, sees itself in a servant role and in partnership with congregations and other church agencies. A significant Mission Board meeting was held in Hesston, Kansas, June 1967. Its theme was "Mission '67." It involved to a larger extent than ever before the lay leadership of the Mennonite Church. During the past year about 1,300 young people were involved in more than 110 servanthood workcamps across the country.

The Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities has six major program divisions and three service divisions:

Service Divisions

Personnel, Information, Financial. The Personnel Office processes workers for Mission Board employment. It works with between 450 and 500 persons a year in one way or another in mission or relief assignments. The Information Services Office endeavors to interpret how the Spirit is working, and attempts to involve the total membership in this ministry.

Program Divisions

1. The Home Missions and Evangelism Office gives stimulation and counsel to district and congregational leaders. It subsidizes about 36 programs with financial assistance in 11 different district conferences. The major concern at the present time is the needs of the inner city and the emerging forms of church life on university campuses.

2. Overseas Missions. This Board is working in 17 different overseas fields. District mission boards are working in an additional three. Over 200 persons are serving overseas under this General Board. The current political and food crises have the serious attention of this division. Some of the particular concerns have been the India famine where more than 27,000 persons in the Bihar province alone have been provided with some measure of food. The Nigeria political situation and the eruption of hostilities in the Middle East had major concern the past year. J. D. Graber completed 40 years of mission service to the Board during the past year, terminating his services as Overseas Secretary. Wilbert Shenk and James Kratz have now assumed these responsibilities.

3. Health and Welfare. More than 20 communities are being served through this division with approximately 800 persons. Nearly 100,000 persons were served through hospitals operated by the Mennonite Board during 1967. This Board is currently administering nine general hospitals and twelve retirement, convalescent, or nursing homes.

4. Relief and Service. This division works with the Mennonite Central Committee in its overseas ministry. About 230 persons are now in overseas relief, Pax, VS, or mental health, or headquarters services of the Mennonite Central Committee through the Relief Office. More than 1,300 men are currently serving in alternate earning service in about 135 different places. Regular peace mailings are being sent out to more than 4,800 teenagers. About 319 persons are serving in 56 locations in VS service in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, and several overseas areas.

5. Mass Communication. The Mennonite Hour radio program has now been shortened to a fifteen-minute program. A new monthly magazine, Alive, has been developed and released during the past year to the radio constituency. The Heart to Heart radio program finds a new ministry in developing fellowship groups.

6. Student Services. Fellowships are being formed on university campuses with some emerging as new congregations.

In its last annual meeting, the Mission Board was asked to evaluate its program and project long-range planning and goals in each of its areas of concern.

District Mission Boards

District mission boards carry major programs of extension and service. The Eastern Mennonite Board has an extensive overseas program in 11 different countries with a financial obligation of more than one-half million dollars.

Mennonite Board of Education

During the past year this Board has undertaken an extensive self-study in a serious attempt to find its future role in the church more clearly. Besides operating two schools, it views itself as having a primary function in philosophy building and policy formulation in the church's academic concern.

The academic needs of the Mennonite Church are being met through the services of three colleges—Goshen, Hesston, and Eastern Mennonite colleges—and a number of secondary and elementary schools. A new library was constructed on the Goshen College campus during the past year, made possible through a million-dollar contribution by one of its alumni. Tilman Smith will terminate his services as president of Hesston College on July 1, 1968. Dr. Laban Peachey will become his successor. Eastern Mennonite College has a new science building near completion, and is raising funds for a new library.

New educational programs are being developed. Goshen College replaces its regular semester program with trimester calendar. Students will then spend one trimester experience in study abroad. Albert Meyer has been appointed to serve as executive secretary for the Board and as director of development. He will assist the church through its Board of Education in long-range planning for Mennonite higher education.

Goshen College Biblical Seminary, under the leadership of its dean, Ross T. Bender, is making an extensive study of the type of seminary training needed in the free church tradition.

Mennonite World Conference

Nearly 500,000 Mennonites were represented in Mennonite World Conference held July 23-30, 1967, in Amsterdam. About 75 official delegates represented the Mennonite Church in addition to a number of persons who chose to attend at their own expense. The next Mennonite World Conference is to be held in 1972 somewhere in South America.

The District Conferences

Congregations of a given geographical area are organized in district conferences. The district conferences carry responsibility for the needs of the constituent congregations, and endeavor to do together what it would be impossible for them to do separately. The district conferences vary in size and strength, and their activities vary accordingly.

The Congregations

A great variety of congregations make up the Mennonite Church. The total number reported in 1967 is 1,225. The number of members varies in each of these congregations. The smallest official membership listed is less than ten, and the largest more than 800 members. The majority of congregations report less than 100 members. Total membership of all congregations reported in 1967 is 108,365.

Mennonite Church Financial "Askings" for 1967-68

Well over 50 percent of the Mennonite churches now distribute their contributions according to a plan adopted at the congregation's annual meeting. This plan is usually called a budget and is based on the program or ministry which the congregation accepts for itself for the forthcoming year. To assist congregations in the preparation of their budgets the boards and agencies of the church give guidance in the form of "per member askings."

Congregations use these per member amounts and the membership listed for their congregation in the Mennonite Yearbook to determine the ratio of their giving to be distributed to the various church agencies.

The amounts suggested here are not ceilings. Larger congregations (those above 125 in membership) should attempt to do 110-125 percent of the per member askings. This will make up for the smaller congregations (those below 50 in membership) that find it difficult to meet the full askings.

	Per member amount needed each year
1. Mennonite General Conference ..... Includes Commission for Christian Education, Peace and Social Concerns Committee, MCC Peace Section, Church Welfare Committee, Mutual Aid, Historical and Research Committee, Ministerial Committee, Stewardship Program, MYF, Worship Committee, Mennonite World Conference, General Council, and Executive Committee.	$ 3.00
2. Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities ..... Includes foreign and home missions, relief (through MCC), VS and I-W services, broadcasting, and Health and Welfare.	31.50
3. Higher Education ..... Includes operating and building funds for Hesston, Goshen, Eastern Mennonite, and Conrad Grebel. (Each congregation distributes its higher education funds to the college in its own area.)	10.00*
4. Goshen College Biblical Seminary ..... Tuition in a seminary is very low. The seminary must be subsidized in excess of $1,200 per student. This money is used for faculty salaries, library, plant maintenance, and student scholarships.	2.00
5. District Conference Needs The district conference askings are so broad and varied that it is impractical to present them here. Congregations should check with their district conference officers or stewardship secretary for the exact figures for their conference. This figure usually includes the district conference and its mission board, secondary and elementary school (if any), mental hospitals, WMSA, camps, homes for the aged, Christian Workers' Conference, as well as other agencies the district may have.

*Congregations show their poorest performance in their response for higher education. Only about $4 per member is contributed toward a need of $10. Hence congregations are asked to take more seriously the $10 per member asking. Our colleges need nearly double the amount that the congregations are currently contributing, to carry out the educational requests from the church.
